Legal basis for data processing	Your consent
Data processing period	One year after the end of selection/recruitment process

You are free to disagree with the inclusion of your data at the end of the selection and further processing in the job applicant database, as well as withdraw your consent at any time and request removal of your data from the database of job applicants. Your reluctance to be included in our database of job applicants or the withdrawal of your consent will not prevent you from participating in the selection for the specific job vacancy you are applying for.

2. From which sources we collect your personal data

Usually we collect your data directly from you - when you respond to our job advertisement and / or provide us your CV, job applicant's application form and / or other job applicant's application documentation (CV, cover letter / letter of motivation, etc.).

We can also obtain the information about your candidacy as well as your CV and / or other application documentation from a job search, selection (recruitment) entities and / or mediation service providers (agencies), for example, from the Labour Exchange of the Republic of Lithuania, employment agencies, job search internet portals, specialized career social networks (e.g. LinkedIn).

We can also receive certain information about you from third parties, e.g. the persons recommending you, your current or former employers. However, we will only collect such information if you give us your consent to contact your employer and / or other person indicated by you and receive a reference or feedback about you.

3. Longer data storage

Upon termination of the period of processing and storage of your data as set up in herein Policy (i.e. at the end of the selection (recruitment) process or one year after the end of the selection, in case you have given your consent to it), we will destroy your data and, in the cases specified in the Policy, we will reliably and irreversibly depersonalise your data as soon as possible, within a due and reasonable period of time necessary to carry out such an action.

For the period longer than specifically specified in this Policy, your personal data may only be stored if:

- there are reasonable suspicions of an unlawful act that is being investigated;
- your data are necessary for the proper resolution of a dispute, a complaint;
- there are other reasons provided for in the legislation.

In any event, we may maintain your consent and proof of it for a longer period, if necessary, so that we could defend against requests, claims or actions brought against us.

4. In what cases and to which third parties we disclose your data?

We may transfer your data for processing to third parties who assist us in carrying out the selection of job applicants or who provide us the services related with the selection (recruitment), assessment of job applicants and internal management. Such persons may include personnel selection (recruitment) and (or) assessment service providers, database software providers, database management (administration) service providers, data centres, hosting and cloud service providers, etc. In any case, we provide the data processor with only as much data as it is necessary to complete a specific assignment or provide a specific service. Our recruited data processors can process your personal data only according to our instructions and cannot use them for other purposes or transfer to other persons without our consent. In addition, they must ensure the security of your data in accordance with applicable law and written agreements with us.

If you participate in the selection for a leading position, we can submit your candidacy and your data to our controlling companies, which, in accordance with the procedures applicable in our corporate group of companies, shall participate in the processes of assessment of the job applicants for leading employee positions and /or in career-related decision-making processes.

We can also provide your personal data processed in our job applicants' database to our corporate group companies – MAXIMA GROUP, UAB and MAXIMA LT, UAB, FRANMAX, UAB, etc., if, in our opinion, your candidacy may be suitable for employment in the companies mentioned above.

Data may also be provided to the competent [public] authorities and bodies or law enforcement agencies, e.g. the police, law enforcement authorities or supervisory bodies, however, only upon request of thereof and only when required by applicable law or in the cases and under the procedures prescribed by law to ensure our rights, the security of our customers, employees and resources, to bring against, submit, and protect/defend the legal requirements.

5. In which territories and jurisdictions we process your personal data

We do not currently intend to transfer and we do not transfer to your personal data to the processors or recipients in the third countries.

6. What rights you are entitled to by data protection laws and how you can enjoy these rights?

The right of access to your personal data which we process: You are entitled to receive our confirmation that we process your personal data, as well as the right to access your personal data processed by us and the information about the purposes of data processing, the categories (types) of the data processed, the categories of recipients of data, the period of data processing, and the sources of data obtainment.

The right for any inaccuracies in personal data to be corrected: If the data submitted to us in your job application documentation has changed or you believe that the information we process about you is inaccurate or incorrect, you have the right to request that information be amended, revised or corrected.

The right to withdraw the consent: You have the right to cancel your consent at any time and request to stop any further processing of your personal data that is carried out on the basis of consent.

The right to make a complaint: If you believe that we process your data in breach/violation of the requirements of data protection law, we will always ask you to contact us directly first. Should you be not satisfied with our proposed solution to the problem or, in your opinion, we will not take action as required by your request, you will have the right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority, which in the Republic of Lithuania is the State Data Protection Inspectorate (A. Juozapavičiaus g. 6, 09310 Vilnius; tel. (8 5) 271 2804, 279 1445; e-mail: ada@ada.lt).

The right to have information/data deleted (the right to be 'forgotten'): In certain circumstances specified in the data processing legislation (when the processing of personal data is carried out unlawfully/illegally, the reason for the processing of data has gone, etc.), you have the right to request that we delete your personal data.

The right to restrict the processing of the data: In certain circumstances specified in the data processing legislation (when the processing of personal data is carried out unlawfully/illegally, you dispute the accuracy of the data, you have filed an objection to the processing of data on the basis of our legitimate interest, etc.), you also have the right to restrict the processing of your data.

The right to portability of the data: You have the right to transfer the data we process by applying automated tools (applies only to your data processed in job applicant database) to another data controller. The data you wish to transfer, we will provide to you in the format generally used in our systems and computer-readable, and when requested by you and technically feasible, we will forward the data directly to another data controller, specified by you.

7. Request examination procedure

In order to protect the data of all of our job applicants against unauthorized disclosure, we will have to determine your identity upon receipt of your request for the data or for the exercise of your other rights. For this purpose, we may ask you to provide your identity document

Upon the receipt of your request for the implementation of any of your rights and having made ourselves confident in your identity, we shall undertake to inform you without undue delay, however, in any case, not later than one month from the receipt of your request, about the actions that we have taken in relation to your request. Having taken into account the complexity and number of requests, we have the right to extend the one-month period for another two months, having notified you about the extension by the end of the first month and indicating the reasons for such extension.

If your request is submitted by electronically, we will also provide you with an answer by electronic means, except for the cases when this is not possible (e.g. due to extremely large amounts of information) or if you will ask us to respond in another manner.

We will refuse to satisfy your request by a reasoned reply (by informing you in writing) when the circumstances specified in the legal acts are determined.
